Bulldogs: Breaking Chains

The San Rafael Bulldogs entered the 2018/19 winter season coming off their first NCS appearance in school history. Their reward, a brand new turf surface to finally give the squad a place of their own to train.

Although San Rafael did qualify for NCS last season, they are still looking for their first MCAL playoff appearance of the decade, unable to break the chains that have kept them in one of the bottom four places. Making the playoffs got that much tougher this season, but early on the Bulldogs have shown that their determination to make the playoffs hasn't wavered.

So far the new pitch has become somewhat of a fortress, first drawing Drake on opening night, then, after having been 0-11-1 vs Marin Catholic this decade, and having been outscored 38-4 in those games, the Bulldogs broke some chains, beating MC 2-0 behind goals from Lauren Summers and Aspen Morris, the latter assisted by Katie Wheeler.

The Ensemble

Matches are played 11v11, and much like any Broadway play, there are players that are in leading roles, and others that are in supporting ones. There are also players that may play very little part on the field, but just like in any on stage performance, without that supporting cast bringing life and energy to what you are seeing, the performance just wouldn't be the same.

Obviously everybody wants to be in a leading role, or at least a supporting one, but there are only so many minutes to go around. Roles change from play to play, season to season, but it is vital that players embrace the role they are cast in for this production, cause only then can what we see on the field be as aesthetically pleasing and reflective of the whole that it can be. It isn't easy to accept that you aren't a star, that you might not have any lines, but no champion has ever been crowned that each and every player on a squad, regardless of the minutes they have played in the matches, hasn't made an impact on. Without the ensemble, the show can't go on...
