ATHLETE-STUDENTS, OR STUDENT-ATHLETES???

You have all heard of the term "student-athlete." It is often used to describe any player that is playing for a team attached to a school. The term is supposed to infer that the player's first priority is her studies, and secondary is her athletics.

Most often, when issues arise with this concept, it is a complaint about too much time being demanded by a sport that doesn't allow a student to properly focus on her studies.

The NCAA has rules that limit the amount of hours teams can train throughout the year to protect the student's ability to get her higher education.

Recently, an issue was brought up at the MCAL Athletic Director's meeting that some teams were not training on Fridays, as if it was an evil that needed to be stopped. Some parents have complained that teams are not training on Fridays because the coaches wanted to rest their players for club commitments on the weekend.

It is interesting to see how misguided so many are. For starters, save for a few freshmen, there is no club soccer going on in Marin on the weekends during high school season.

Secondly, these girls are playing two games in three days, something that no professional does anywhere in the world, and they are doing it week after week. Some schools average 2.5 games per week. Each school should have the choice of whether or not they want to train on Fridays. Academics and the player's health should be paramount...

* Magic Number represents the number of results points needed to be eligible for NCS - Win = 2, Tie = 1. So each win takes two off the total, a tie takes one off. Magic number does not include playoff games.

Numbers in parenthesis are NCS Magic Numbers that only league games can reduce.

There are three ways to become eligible - .500 record in league, .500 record overall, .500 rec in classification
